Perseus

A son of Zeus and a mortal woman, Perseus accepted the challenge to kill the Gorgon Medusa. Anyone who looked her in the eye turned to stone. He used a shiny bronze shield as a mirror. Then he snuck up on Medusa while she slept without looking directly at her. With a mighty swipe of his sword, he cut off her head.