

Kinetic friction

Kinetic friction is a force exerted by objects that are moving against each other. When two solid objects move next to each other, friction slows them down.